Enemy Vessels Move

American Bombers Raid
Burmese Airport,

(By The Associated Press)
Japanese sea-borne reinforcements were reported moving down the coast of New Guinea today, bolstering a land threat to the United Nations outpost at Port Moresby, while elsewhere in the Far Pacific theatre allied fliers hammered the enemy in many sectors.

Advices to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in Australia said enemy ships were en route to the Papuan peninsula, presumably to strengthen Japanese forces which landed July 22 in the Gona-Buna area across the 120-mile-wide peninsula from Port Moresby.

Allied headquarters said the situation was still unchanged at Kokoda, halfway across the peninsula, the farthest point of the Japanese advance toward Port Moresby. United Nations planes strafed Japanese troops and positions in the sector yesterday, starting numerous fires.

Other allied planes raided the Lae-Salamaua area, 150 miles north of Buna, and hit a Japanese cargo ship which was beached in flames.

On the China war front, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced that U. S. army air raiders dropped a 500-pound bomb squarely on a Japanese headquarters in the Kiangsi Province center of Linchuan yesterday.

The communiqué said American fighter pilots also had machine gunned two Japanese transports on the Fu river.

Both demolition and incendiary bombs were used by the bombers. Waterfront is Blasted

The waterfront also was blasted and direct hits on two docks left several large fires burning, the communiqué said.

As the fighter-escorted American bombers made their run over the enemy base, returning pilots reported they saw Chinese ground forces attacking the invaders.

Quarter-ton bombs struck Japanese barracks and 12 hits were counted on Japanese positions, the war bulletin reported. One of the war was the direct hit on the headquarters.

An army spokesman said Chinese troops have encircled Linchuan and reached the city's west and south gates.

Discussing the radical change in the Japanese position, the spokesman said yesterday's air raid was of great aid to them.

In North China, the spokesman said the Japanese were seizing food and other crops, kidnapping women and holding them ransom for payment of a specific number of bushels a head.

The Japanese sent some of their best airmen in another unsuccessful raid against Hengyang yesterday. The action was described officially as "favorable to the Americans."

In 36 hours of bitter aerial fighting last Thursday and Friday the Japanese hurled 119 planes against the American air outpost in Hunan Province, losing 17 of their craft and possibly four more.

Discussing the radical change which has come over the war in China since the American air force swung into action a month ago, a government spokesman declared today:

"Before the American air force appeared, the Japanese could do great damage to us even with a small air force. Now the situation is changing."

"Japan is getting a headache trying to solve the hitherto nonexistent problem of protecting her airfields and strongholds, which are widely scattered and great in number."

At the same time, U. S. air force headquarters in India announced that American bombers, flying through rains so thick it was "like submarine navigation," had pounded the Japanese-occupied Myitkya airdrome in central Burma with such devastating effect that it had been knocked out as a base for enemy attacks on allied planes ferrying war goods to China.

Four States Hold Their Primaries

Reed Seeks Republican Nomination in Kansas and Faces Contests on Issues

Charges Are Made
Virginia Battle Finds
Davison and Smith in Bitter Test

(By The Associated Press)
Four states joined the August primary parade today with voters selecting party candidates for a total of 37 congressional seats.

The year's biggest primary month in which 16 states designated nominees for state and federal offices, turned today's political spotlight on Kansas, Missouri, Virginia and West Virginia where the chief issues were labor and pre-war foreign policy.

In Kansas, U. S. Senator Reed, who opposed the closed shop on defense construction projects, sought the Republican nomination for governor. His opponents were Lieut. Gov. Carl Friend, Andrew Schoepel, former corporation commission head, and State Senator Thale P. Skovgard, foe of the federal farm program.

Seeking renomination for a fifth term, U. S. Senator Arthur Capper, Republican, was opposed by John Allison and C. C. Isley. The Democratic nomination for the senatorial seat was sought by former Senator George McGill, former Representative Randolph Carpenter and W. G. Clugston, Topeka newspaperman. The seven Kansas representatives also were seeking renomination.

The bitterest contest on the day's calendar was in Virginia where Emmett O. Davison, former Alexandria mayor and secretary treasurer of the International Association of Machinists (A.F.L.), opposed renomination of Representative Howard A. W. Smith, Democrat, of the eighth district.

Smith, author of bills to revamp the Wagner labor relations act and to outlaw strikes during wartime, was accused by Davison of being a foe of labor and of failing to support the administration in "vital war measures." Meanwhile, the congressman questioned Davison's loyalty to his own union organization.

The only other contest in the Virginia primaries was between Representative Clifton A. Woodruff and M. C. Plunkett, Roanoke attorney, in the sixth district. The latter had the endorsement of a committee claiming representation of both the A.F.L. and C.I.O. unions although Woodruff supporters also claimed the endorsement of some A.F.L. leaders.

Senator Carter Glass, and the seven other Virginia congressmen were without primary opposition. In Missouri, primary voters select 13 U. S. representatives, a state school superintendent, 18 state senators and 150 state representatives. The most active campaigning was in the 12th district where Representative Walter Ploeser had six opponents assailing what they called his "pre-war isolationist record."

The West Virginia primary candidates were contending for one U. S. senatorial office and six representatives' seats. The balloting determines the outcome of another battle between Governor M. M. Neely and former Governor H. G. Kump. Two years ago Neely relinquished his office as senator to run for governor and "clean up" his opponents in the state house. Attempting to return to the Senate, he was opposed for the Democratic nomination again by Kump.

Bulkeley Is Given Congressional Medal

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—President Roosevelt personally bestowed the congressional medal of honor today on a young navy lieutenant, John D. Bulkeley, for his daring exploits as commander of a motor torpedo boat squadron for four months in Philippine waters.

It was Bulkeley and the men of his mosquito boat squadron who cluded the Japanese and transported General Douglas MacArthur and President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines from beleaguered Corregidor Island. But the citation accompanying the award of the nation's highest military honor did not even mention this.

Bulkeley won the medal, instead, for operations "believed to be without precedent" in damaging or destroying "a notable number of Japanese enemy planes, surface combatant and merchant ships and in dispersing landing parties and land based enemy forces during the four months and eight days of operation without benefit of repairs, overhaul or maintenance facilities."

The citation spoke of Bulkeley's "dynamic forcefulness and brilliancy in planning and executing attacks, his resourcefulness and ingenuity, and said these qualities, along with a complete disregard for his personal safety, reflected great credit upon him and the naval service.

Cabin Cruiser Is Sighted, 12 Are Believed Drowned

Only 1 Survivor, Woman,
Is Known; Swam 7
Miles to Safety
From Wreck

Standish, Mich., Aug. 4 (AP)—A cabin cruiser which foundered Sunday in Saginaw Bay with 13 persons aboard was sighted submerged near Point Au Gres today and Coast Guards expressed belief that all but one known survivor had perished.

Fear that six men and five women still missing would not be found alive was voiced when Coast guardsmen discovered the body of Cecil Day, 45-year-old boat liveryman and pilot of the craft, at 9 a. m. today, two and one-half miles east of where the craft, a converted tug, was located.

The cruiser, which had left early Sunday on a fishing party, foundered eight and one-half miles southeast of Point Au Gres.

The only known survivor, Mrs. Louis Repke, 23, of Bay City, swam an estimated seven miles to safety.

Regaining strength but still shaken, Mrs. Repke told of setting out with her husband and a second woman in an attempt to swim to shore after the 3-foot craft, a converted tug, presumably struck a rock in mid-bay.

From about 3 p. m. until darkness, the three kept together. Then became separated. After what she believed to have been hours, Mrs. Repke reached shore, struggled to an unoccupied hunting cabin, and fell into an exhausted sleep.

At noon yesterday she awakened and walked three miles to a farm house.

"I had lost all sense of time and all sense of direction," she said. "I only knew that the sun was high. I had no idea where I was. I don't know how long I was in the water—it must have been more than eight hours but I don't know how much longer."

When Mrs. Repke and her two companions began their swim, their ten friends, all wearing life jackets, were clinging to a portion of the cruiser's cabin which remained above water.

Early today Sheriff John Johansen said there was "little hope" that any others survived.

Missing were Cecil Day of White's Beach, owner of the cruiser; Mrs. Repke's husband; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Badour, Au Gres; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Sauve and Mr. and Mrs. William Hatchew, Kawkawlin; Mr. and Mrs. John Zametzer, Linwood Beach and Mr. and Mrs. Abe LaBean, Bay City.

Situation in India Might Bring
One of War's Outstanding Crises

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)
As things now stand the week-end will see untold millions of Indian Nationalists committed to an effort to exact independence from Britain through one of those terribly explosive civil disobedience campaigns which heretofore have resulted in bloodshed and in the present instance may easily develop into one of the major crises of the world war.

Pandit Nehru, who next to Mahatma Gandhi is the most powerful Nationalist leader in India, declared today that the projected movement would be ratified by the All-India Congress which meets in Bombay Friday, and that the campaign probably would start in a fortnight. The Pandit says it will be "short, swift and effective," and he figures that the fate of the country will be decided in about three months.

Thus Friday is a day to which not only India but the entire world must look forward with deep concern. As previously explained in this column, the Anglo-Indian imbroglio represents one of the great

Four More Ships
Sink in Atlantic

Lake Advocates Undersea
Freighters to Dodge
Axis Prowlers

(By The Associated Press)
Four more recent ship sinkings were announced by the navy yesterday amid conflicting declarations from two quarters on the continued success of Axis submarines in the western Atlantic.

As the Associated Press tabulation of announced wartime merchant losses for the area rose to 412, Simon Lake, pioneer submarine builder, asserted in Washington in advocating a fleet of undersea freighters, "we have not yet seen the full fury of the (enemy) submarines such as will probably descend upon us in the days to come." He testified before a Senate committee.

At Balboa, C. Z., meanwhile, Rear Admiral Clifford Evans Van Hook, commandant of the 15th U. S. Naval District, reported that during July the Caribbean—where in a 12-day period raiding U-boats picked off 13 victims the month before—had been particularly free of effective enemy attacks.

Admiral Van Hook told newsmen that the increasing freedom from submarine attacks in the Caribbean might be due to the recent extension of the convoy system in those waters and might also be a result of "the urgent need of the Germans and Italians to employ their submarines elsewhere."

The four vessels announced yesterday were:

Ringling Brothers' Loss Runs High as Result of Cleveland Blaze
at Noontime

Cleveland, Aug. 4 (AP)—Fire today swept the menagerie tent of the Ringling Brothers circus, destroying at least 50 wild and trained animals.

Terrified animals were burned alive in their cages before the eyes of 5,000 persons at the circus grounds on Cleveland's lakefront.

Other animals, including an elephant and several giraffes, tore loose from their manacles. Police used riot guns to destroy the giraffes.

The death toll included:
Ten camels.
Three elephants.
Three giraffes.
Several lions, tigers and leopards.
Many smaller animals.

The entire menagerie tent was destroyed.

The crowd watched the catastrophe with helpless fascination. Some of the animals raced at large, aflame. At one point when the fire was at its height, an ostrich with plumes blazing ran from the menagerie tent. The flames were patted out by circus employees and the bird was captured by trainers.

An eye-witness counted 30 carcasses lying amid the embers of the menagerie grounds and 20 others, their pelts charred, lying in their cages.

At that time the fire was under control, although straw in the tent still was smoldering. No official estimate of the damage was immediately available, but the loss was believed to amount to tens of thousands of dollars.

The blaze apparently started on top of one of the animal cages and spread quickly through the rest of the menagerie.

All available squads of police were called to the scene to handle the noon hour crowd of 5,000 persons which was drawn by the heavy smoke and billowing flames.

Eight camels tethered inside the tent were burned to death, and 10 other camels were led from the flames with their hair burned almost entirely from their backs.

A large elephant, terribly burned, was put out of pain by circus attendants, who fired eight revolver shots into the animal's brain.

Numerous monkeys, birds and dogs were among the other animals destroyed.

The gorilla Gargantua, one of the main attractions of the "greatest show on earth," was not harmed.

There were scenes of indescribable animal agony. Lions, still alive, paced helplessly in their flaming cages, the hair burned off. A brace of Bengal tigers were similarly trapped.

A number of zebras created a near-panic among the thousands of spectators when they broke loose from their halters and galloped onto the nearby New York Central railroad tracks before they were rounded up.

Lindbergh Reports No Gauge of War Feeling of Public

Flier Appears for Brief
Time on Witness Stand at Pelley Trial in Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Aug. 4 (AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh made a brief appearance as a defense witness today in the sensational trial of William Dudley Pelley, testifying that he had made no effort to learn of the public's attitude toward the war since the United States entered the conflict.

"I have devoted my time and energy to doing what I can to help with the war effort," the noted aviator replied when Floyd G. Christian, defense attorney, asked what he had observed as to any change in public opinion about this nation's participation in the war.

"I have made no effort to learn of any change in the public's attitude since the United States went to war."

Earlier Lindbergh, who was active in the America First movement prior to America's entry into the war, had testified it was his impression that "the majority of the people of this country were opposed to going into war—that is before we were attacked."

Lindbergh occupied the witness chair only fifteen minutes. He was not cross examined by the government.

After he left the stand the trial of the former Silver Shind leader and two associates, accused of interfering with the war effort by publication of seditious statements, (Continued on Page Two)

Hitler's Troops Gain
One-third of Distance to Great Caucasus Oil Area

Dam Is Blown

Russians Destroy Big Manych Dam, Flood Valley

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

Soviet dispatches declared today that Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's armies, sweeping around the German flanks, had cut off Nazi forces in the "battle of the bend" 80 miles northwest of Stalingrad, but the invaders continued to surge forward on the lower Don river and in the Caucasus.

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters asserted that German mechanized columns had rolled up to the Kuban river deep in the Caucasus at several points and had captured the town of Voroshilovsk, 180 miles southeast of Rostov.

If true, this would mean that the Germans had already advanced nearly one-third the distance to the great Caucasus oil fields and far beyond the sectors noted in Soviet communiqués.

The Kuban river, which crosses the Rostov-Batu rail line, empties into the Black Sea just below the Kerch peninsula.

A German communiqué said Voroshilovsk, described as an important industrial sector, fell to Nazi shock troops, after violent house-to-house fighting.

A British radio broadcast reported that the Russians had blown up a dam and flooded the Manych River valley to stem the advance of German armored units north of Sukh, 100 miles southeast of Rostov.

There was still no indication that the Soviet trans-Caucasian army had gone into action, and it seemed likely that the force was being held in reserve to make a stand in the rugged mountains which guard the approach to the rich Baku-Batum oil fields from the north.

In the Soviet campaign, a mid-day bulletin from Red army headquarters acknowledged that the Russians had retreated in the Salsk region, 100 miles southeast of Rostov, after thousands of wild-riding Cossacks had broken up a series of Nazi assaults.

Shouting "Ne Shagu Nazad!" (Not one step backward!), the Don and Kuban Cossacks were credited with beating off two regiments of tank-led German infantry but subsequently were forced to withdraw.

Latest Soviet dispatches reported fighting in only two Caucasus zones—at Salsk and at Kuschchevka, 50 miles south of Rostov.

A Red army communiqué said the Germans "several times attempted unsuccessfully to force crossings over a river" in the Kuschchevka sector, 138 miles north of the Maikop oil fields in the foothills of the Caucasus mountains. Beyond the towering ranges lie the main Baku and Batum fields which produce most of Russia's oil.

In the battle of the Don river, Soviet dispatches said German troops "in superior numbers" broke through Red army lines and attempted to cross the River at Kleitskaya, 80 miles above Stalingrad, but Russian forces cut swiftly around the Nazi flanks and severed their communications.

Front-line reports to Izvestia, Soviet government newspaper, said the Russians now were attempting to wipe out the advanced Nazi forces before they could re-establish contact.

Izvestia said the Germans were trying to fly ammunition and fuel to the trapped Nazis, but declared the Red air force was fighting off the supply planes.

A Soviet communiqué reported that Marshal Timoshenko's stiffening legions also threw back repeated assaults by tank-led Italian infantry in the Kleitskaya sector and killed 2,000 Axis troops.

On the lower Don, the Russians conceded that German forces were continuing to pour across the river in the Tsimlyansk sector, 120 miles upstream from Rostov, but declared that here and elsewhere the Nazis were paying a bloody toll.

On the Egyptian front, British imperial headquarters reported that activity in the El Alamein theatre, 80 miles west of Alexandria, had dwindled to patrol sorties and intermittent aerial clashes.

In the western air war, Nazi daylight raiders bombed two English towns today after a night-long lull on both sides.

Insurance Credit May Be Permitted Income Taxpayers

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—A proposal to permit individuals to deduct a fixed percentage of their taxable income to meet life insurance premiums, pay on old debts and buy government bonds was endorsed as "sensibly sound" today by chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Finance Committee.

George made this observation after John Witherspoon of Nashville, Tenn., president of the National Association of Life Underwriters, testified that unless some such tax credit was allowed it would become "virtually impossible" for many persons to keep their life insurance policies in force.

Witherspoon's suggestion for a percentage credit, which could be deducted just as charity donations now are subtracted from the taxable income, also was applauded by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), who told the witness:

"I completely agree with the objective. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) suggested that if such a provision were written into the new revenue bill, arrangements ought to be made to give a similar credit to individuals who were not in debt and who did not happen to be paying on life insurance."

This might be accomplished, Taft said, by a post-war tax rebate for such individuals. Senator Bailey (D-NC) objected that a life insurance premium credit would discriminate against the man who had invested in real estate, but Taft said it was his understanding that the payments on a mortgage would be deductible as money that was going to liquidate a debt.

F. D. R. Gives Day To Saboteur Matter

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—President Roosevelt gave over virtually the entire day today to what an aide termed a "very careful review" of the findings and sentence of the military commission which tried eight Nazis on charges of entering the United States for sabotage activities.

There was no indication that Mr. Roosevelt's decision on the recommendations of the commission would come today, inasmuch as he had a tall stack of documents to go through.

Four More Ships Sink in Atlantic

terday as sunk were a British and a Norwegian merchantman and two small American craft—one a tug, the other a trawler.

Two men were killed and 40 saved in the torpedoing of the British ship in the south Atlantic 300 miles from shore May 28. The sub riddled the lifeboats with machine gun fire as the seamen tried to lower them.

Thirteen of 24 crewmen aboard the Norwegian perished when their craft was torpedoed in the Gulf of Mexico July 19.

The American tug was sunk more than two weeks ago off the east coast, presumably by a mine, with two men missing and 15, including a mess girl, rescued.

The trawler's casualty list included five killed and seven wounded in a north Atlantic attack in which five other crewmen escaped unscathed as a sub shelled their craft.

No Explanation for Construction Walkout

Point Pleasant, W. Va., Aug. 4 (AP)—Approximately 1,000 construction workers who walked off their jobs yesterday, apparently as a result of a misunderstanding, returned today to the $55,000,000 ordinance works the government is building in Mason county.

The walkout was unauthorized by any union and could not be explained by officials of the E. B. Badger Company, general construction contractor. Lieut. James Rader, army public relations officer, said no strike call was issued and that some of the workers returned to their posts yesterday afternoon.

Rader said the walkout was precipitated apparently by a false rumor that an official call for a strike had been issued. He said there has been some discussion of a higher wage scale for certain job classifications.

Use of Iron, Steel Prohibited in Mattresses

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—The War Production Board today prohibited use of iron and steel in mattresses after September 1, and in studio couches, sofa beds and lounges after November 1.

Simultaneously, W.P.B. fixed strict quotas on production of bed springs, and prohibited the use of metal in the manufacture of spring frames.

The order will stop production of innerspring mattresses entirely and force bed spring makers to use wood or some other substitute in wood frames.

Ashby also of the fifth ward, who also recently entered the service.

British Have Secrets

London, Aug. 3 (AP)—The secrets of Germany's new Focke Wulf-190 fighter, one of Germany's most effective weapons on the western air front, now are in the possession of the British Air Ministry.

An FW-190 was brought down in Britain in good condition, it was announced today, despite German orders that the planes were not to venture across the English Channel.

Coast Guard's Birthday

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—War put a crimp in the celebration today of the Coast Guard's 152nd birthday, but individual Coast Guard bases fitted observances into their war duties. For men at sea, the day meant little more than an extra fancy menu at the mess table. The international life boat races formerly held at New York on the anniversary were cancelled but several Coast Guard stations, particularly at New York and Curtis Bay, Md., planned small boat races.

He quickly became a top figure in the industry with such memorable productions as "Merton of the Movies," the "Ruggles of Red Gap," "The Goose Hangs High" and "City That Never Sleeps."

Lindbergh Reports No Gauge of War Feeling of Public

was adjourned until tomorrow because defense attorney said they had no other witnesses immediately available.

Lindbergh was the first of Peley's "big name" witnesses.

Lindbergh's appearance brought a capacity crowd to the federal court room.

Escorted Through Throng

The aviator was escorted through a throng that packed the corridors outside the court room. He had remained in the private quarters of U. S. Marshal Julius J. Wichser until he was called to testify.

Wearing a pale blue shirt, a dark blue tie, a dark suit and black shoes, the lanky Lindbergh coiled himself in the witness chair and crossed his legs as he underwent examination by Christian.

Christian led off with this question: "Are you the young man who flew across the Atlantic Ocean?"

"Yes sir," replied Lindbergh without the trace of a smile.

Christian then asked Lindbergh if during his residence abroad he had made any survey of the world's air forces.

"In a private capacity," Lindbergh replied, adding that his study concerned chiefly the air forces of France, Germany, Russia and England.

"Did you cooperate with the government by giving it what information you obtained?" Christian asked.

"Yes, I did," Lindbergh replied. "I was asked if he offered 'advice' to the government."

"Yes, I did," he again answered. "Now, Colonel Lindbergh—or do you still have the title?"

"No, sir, I resigned in 1940," Lindbergh replied and then explained he had served in the army reserve corps holding commissions from second lieutenant on and including the rank of colonel.

"Just previous to the declaration of war," asked Christian, "were you a member of an organization which opposed this country getting into the war?"

"I was a member of the National Committee of America First, if that is what you mean," Lindbergh answered.

Christian asked Lindbergh if he was familiar with the Gallup poll.

"I was familiar with it through reading it in the newspapers but I had no connection with it."

Christian asked the witness his opinion as to the attitude of the people of the United States toward getting into the war and Lindbergh replied:

"My impression was that the majority of the people of this country were opposed to going into war—that is before we were attacked."

"What did you advocate as to the course of the United States?" Christian asked but an objection by Oscar R. Ewing, of the government legal staff, blocked an answer.

Lindbergh was asked if he had made a study of naval conditions.

"In a very slight degree and only they applied to aviation—never an exhaustive study," was his answer.

Christian queried Lindbergh briefly as to his speaking career and if his speeches were broadcast as well as published.

"Yes, sir, the radio usually was connected."

Willkie Cites 3 Basic 'Unity' Ideas for Parties

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—Three basic "unity" principles by which he said Republicans and Democrats could take the war out of the congressional and state political campaigns are advanced by Wendell L. Willkie. With these proposals, he coupled bases of "constructive criticism" for Republican use.

At a press conference, Willkie urged both parties yesterday to incorporate in their convention platforms these principles:

"America must fight this war in union with other countries until the last vestige of totalitarianism and aggression is destroyed throughout the world.

"No matter how long and painful the road to complete victory, it must be pursued with no thought of appeasement.

"When the war is over, we must set up institutions and methods of international political and economic cooperation to the end that excessive nationalistic ideas and military ambitions will find no spawning grounds."

Willkie listed these "constructive criticism" issues on which Republicans might campaign:

"The efficiency of the government's war effort; its failures and delays in administration, its confused handling of the subtle and dangerous questions of inflation, etc.; its refusal to deal realistically with the need for a united command in our own armed forces and the development with our allies of a coordinate strategy; its waiting until after the election on the inevitable necessity of drafting men below the age of 21; and above all its tragic dulling of the American people's eager will to sacrifice by a multitude of ill-considered and conflicting directives.

Such a campaign, he said, "will not disunite but will strengthen America."

Emblems' Sale Will Aid Supply Purchases

The New York office of the Medical and Surgical Relief Committee of America, 420 Lexington avenue, has emblems designating the society, which will be sold at a later time for the purpose of obtaining medical and surgical supplies to equip emergency stations and field hospitals of the allied nations.

The work of this organization began in August 1940 and since that time has increased to care for requests from Greece, the Free French in Africa, China and Russia. Since America's entry into the war the committee is concentrating its effort on behalf of our own country and aims to fill requests from hospitals, civilian defense and first aid posts throughout the Western Hemisphere.

About 50 women physicians throughout the United States are members of this humanitarian organization. It is under the jurisdiction of the President's committee of war relief agencies and is sanctioned by the National Office of Civilian Defense.

All who are interested in this work are invited to communicate with Dr. Nettie Weintraub at 273 Clinton avenue for further details. Later local committees will be formed to step-up the work in this locality.

Housewives Urged to Aid Salvage Effort

Mrs. Edward McCaffery, chairman of the Women's Division of the Kingston Salvage Committee, has issued an appeal to all housewives to get behind the local salvage effort. Especially, does she want the housewives to cooperate with the local meat industries in the "waste fat" campaign.

Mrs. McCaffery says "War in the Pacific has greatly reduced our supply of vegetable fats from the Far East. It is necessary to find substitutes for them. Moreover, fats make glycerine and glycerine makes explosives to down Axis planes, stop their tanks, sink their ships. We need millions of pounds of glycerine and you housewives can help supply them. "Don't throw away a single drop of used cooking fat—bacon grease, meat drippings, frying fats—every kind you use. After you've got all the cooking good from them, pour them through kitchen strainer into a clean, wide-mouthed can. Keep in a cool, dark place. Please don't use glass containers or paper bags. "Take them to your meat dealer when you've saved a pound or more. He is cooperating patriotically. He will pay you for your waste fats and get them started on their way to the war industries. It will help him if you can deliver your fats early in the week.

Mrs. McCaffery also urges housewives to search through their homes for any scrap metal. Scrap metal she states can be turned over to your local junk dealer, or housewives may call 1100, the office of the Salvage Committee.

Heavy Traffic Reported On West Shore Line

Passenger traffic on the West Shore Railroad and Catskill Mountain Branch is the "heaviest in years," according to a statement today from a representative of the New York Central System.

"Approximately 1,000 people are using the former Ulster & Delaware Railroad each week-end in going to and from the mountain resorts, and extra sections of trains on the West Shore have been necessary to handle the traffic."

Train No. 1, which runs from Weehawken to Albany on Saturday and Sunday, arriving in Kingston at 11 a. m., now usually runs two sections, while Train No. 8, leaving Kingston for Weehawken at noon on Saturdays has also been run in two sections. The Sunday evening trains to the metropolis, numbers 2 and 38, are using two sections, with nine cars containing passengers from the Catskill and Kingston areas, leaving the Kingston station Sunday evening, bound for New York.

64 Enlist in Navy From Kingston, Poughkeepsie

U. S. Navy Recruiting Station Post Office Building Poughkeepsie, N. Y. August 3, 1942

Editor, The Freeman

Dear Sir:—

Sixty-four men were enlisted through the Poughkeepsie and the Kingston recruiting stations during the month of July. This is the largest number of men ever enlisted in a single month from the local recruiting stations. The local Navy recruiter is more than pleased with these results and is looking forward for a larger number of men during the month of August.

I want to take this opportunity of thanking your paper for your fine work in helping us with our drive. There's a job to be done, a big job, one that requires the combined and united efforts of every red-blooded American citizen. We have long since passed the stage of isolationism. We can't sit idly by and hope that the war will soon be over and that maybe it won't affect us very much. We have only to consider the status of the conquered nations of Europe to understand what could happen to this country if we lose the war. This isn't just a war between nations, it's a war between our democratic way of life and the sordid principals of Nazism. It's a tough fight; it may take a long time to win, but win we will, if every true American will fall in line to help rid the world of this menace.

Men of Ulster county, if you feel any anger or resentment at the sneaky attack of the Japs at Pearl Harbor or the Nazi butchers, and want to do something about it, call at the United States Navy Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. The Navy Recruiting Station serving Ulster county, is open every Thursday at the Kingston Post Office Building from 9 a. m. until 1 p. m. Your country needs you now. Enlist in the Navy or the Naval Reserve and join the thousands of men who are proud to wear the Navy Blue.

Very truly yours,
JOHN McGUIRE,
Chief Boatswain's Mate,
U. S. Navy Recruiter

Desmond's Tips for Fuel Administration

94 Broadway, Newburgh, N. Y. August 3, 1942

Editor of the Kingston Freeman, Kingston, New York.

Dear Sir:—

Recent unfavorable fuel oil developments give additional force to my recommendation which the New York State War Council is now considering that it establish promptly a State Fuel Administration along the lines of a similar 1917-1918 World War state agency.

Fuel oil shortage is primarily a national problem, but there is much which a State Fuel Administration could do in helpful co-operation with national authorities. Among other activities, it could:

Arrange for allocation throughout the state of available fuel oil according to need.

Requisition and coordinate necessary state transportation facilities.

Check hoarding and waste of fuel oil and coal.

Stimulate a state "Buy Coal Now" campaign and promote conversion of oil burners to coal.

Comments concerning the wisdom or lack of wisdom of these suggestions may be sent direct to the New York State War Council at Albany. I shall appreciate receiving at my Newburgh office copies of any such comments.

Sincerely yours,
THOMAS C. DESMOND.

Chris D. Sullivan Dies; Was Sphinx Of Tammany Hall

Long Political Career Was Marked by 23 Silent
Years in Congress;
Dies at Club

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—Christopher D. Sullivan, 72, the Sphinx of Tammany Hall who in 23 years as a Congressman never was known to make a speech, died last night.

The big politician, whose ruddy face under a thatch of white hair was a familiar sight in Washington, New York and Albany even if his voice seldom was heard, collapsed in the Second Assembly District Democratic clubhouse—his last stronghold since his ouster last February from the leadership of Tammany.

Cause of death was not announced pending further examination.

He had complained of feeling ill while attending a meeting of district officers and died on a couch before arrival of a doctor.

A native New Yorker, "Christy"—as he was known—entered the real estate business as a young man but politics was his prime interest. In the latter field, his methods differed widely from the run-of-the-mill politician.

Throughout his political heyday—New York state senator from 1908 to 1916; U. S. representative from 1917 to 1940; Tammany chieftain from 1937 until six months ago—he showed an aversion to publicity and the limelight.

Strictly a behind-the-scenes manipulator his modesty and shyness on his few public appearances won him the nickname of "The Sphinx."

He retired from Congress in 1940 to give all his attention to Tammany, the New York County Democratic machine for which he had been less and less able to obtain patronage in either the national or state capital.

Last year, with Mayor F. H. La Guardia's re-election for a third term, Tammany broke wide open and three months after the election more aggressive leaders forced Sullivan into retirement.

Girls Run Own Farm, Despite Neighbors Forecast

Jackson, Minn., Aug. 4 (AP)—The wartime farm labor shortage poses no problems for the Rotter girls—they run their own farm.

Except at threshing time and to get the hay in the barn, when a neighbor comes over, a man hasn't worked on the place since old John Rotter, pioneer southern Minnesota farmer, died in 1926 and left his farm to his widow and four girls.

The neighbors told the women to sell the place—they never could run a farm alone—but they told the Rotter girls short.

Ida, Adelaide, Mathilda and Anna, the daughters looked things over and decided they could do it. Sixteen years have passed since their father died and they are still on the farm.

Unaided, they raise about 120 hogs and 300 laying hens a year, milk 15 cows, care for 10 horses used in farm work, cultivate 45 acres of corn, 24 acres of barley, 60 acres of oats and besides, do all the usual chores of farm women. Their 83-year-old mother helps with lighter house duties.

Besides that, they've built a new barn, chicken house, corn crib, windmill and well, hog house and machine shed since they took over.

Primary Reading Course

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 4 (AP)—"Why, I always go through when I see those signs," explained an elderly motorist to Sgt. Glen Talbot of the traffic squad who had stopped him for running a stop sign. "That means I'm on the arterial road and have the right to go ahead." Desperately, Talbot gave his catch a primary course in reading and let him go without a ticket.

Recs Will Risk Great Record Against Braves Thursday

Harbert Defeats 'Dutch' Harrison For St. Paul Golf

Winner Posts 66 to Win $1,000.00; Melts Six Strokes Off Par on Keller Turf

St. Paul, Aug. 4 (AP)—Tournament golf is about ready to end its war year on a financial par with other seasons.

Pros will have collected just as much prize money and will have been trailed by just as many spectators as before.

That's the word passed along by Irishman Fred Corcoran, P.G.A. tournament manager.

Like all seasons, this one has produced players who appear destined to take places next to the immortals. Chick Harbert, of East Creek, Mich., is one such a fellow.

He won the St. Paul Open championship yesterday in a playoff with Dutch Harrison, the lean, drawing Arkansas from Harrisburg, Pa. He won it sensationally by melting six strokes off par on the Keller public links for a 66. Harrison came in with a 75.

Harbert's 31-35 trick gave him $1,000 first prize, boosted his year's winnings to $4,692 for sixth place among the top 10 headed by Ben Hogan, $12,143. Harrison took $750, bringing his earnings to $4,100 and seventh place.

While most of the other pros high-tailed it to Toronto, Ontario, today for the $3,000 Canadian Open Thursday through Sunday, Harbert was on his way home, planning not to enter.

Following the Canadian tournament is the $5,000 Rochester, N. Y., Open August 13-16. Chick is planning to go to that one.

"There are six tentative dates set after the Rochester meet before the season officially ends," Corcoran said. "So far the pros have collected a total of $130,000 in prize money and should reach the six-year average of $175,000."

Some $100,000 has been given to war relief through tournaments and Red Cross benefit matches and in 22 tournaments thus far the golfers have played before 400,000 persons, as many as at any time in the past.

ON THE SPOT

By JERRY BRONFIELD
Wide World Sports Writer
(Pinch hitting for Dillon Graham)

A few years back there was a gent named John Montague who got himself known as the mystery man of golf. You remember him, of course. He was the one who could knock a sparrow off a telephone wire with a six iron and tour a course in par figures using a hoe or billiard cue.

Golf doesn't come up with many mysteries in the way of personnel but there's another one in the air, and it's a pip, viz., what in the devil happened to Ralph Guldahl?

Four years ago some of the golf critics were showering him with the choicest adjectives they could lay their tongues and typewriters to. The big Texan was the best yet. Greatest of the great. Greater than yes, it was reason — greater than Emperor Jones.

Guldahl had won the National Open two years in a row, in 1937 at Oakland Hills, Birmingham, Mich., with a 281 and the next year at Denver's Cherry Hills, where his 284 remains a National Open record.

He had won the Western Open three straight years, 1936-37-38. He had won the 1939 Masters with a blistering 279, scoring a 33 on the final nine to beat Sam Snead.

Guldahl was known as the "Cinderella Man" of golf. After early successes he had slipped so badly he took to selling automobiles for a living. He launched a comeback a couple of years later that found him winning the Radix Trophy with a total tournament average of 71.65.

He had the shots and the temperament — he was slow-playing, maddening, and nothing disturbed him — and it looked like he'd be on top for quite awhile.

In the last three seasons Guldahl has won a tournament of consequence — hasn't come very close, in fact.

No one seems to know what's the matter, not even Guldahl himself. Fred Corcoran, tournament manager for the P. G. A., informs us that Guldahl had been almost desperate in his attempt to recover his old touch.

He even went back to Oakland Hills to play a few rounds, hoping that the scene of one of his greatest triumphs might somehow bring back the spark but the psychology didn't work.

He took lessons from Pro Al Watrous. He took motion pictures of his swing and compared them with motion pictures of the championship swing of four years ago. Corcoran says there appears to be not the slightest difference.

The power seems to be there; so does the rhythm and the timing. Which leads one to believe that the fault, whatever it is, might not be physical.

Maybe he's concentrating too much, pressing too hard. Those mental hazards often are deeper than the deepest sand trap, wider than the widest waterway.

House cleaning can be made easier by having mats at doors, screens on windows and doors, and a special place where soiled clothing and footwear may be removed.

Ernie Lombardi Is After National Batting Crown

ERNIE LOMBARDI

Battling the Giants for the National League home run leadership swirling into August, the Boston Braves likewise are bidding strongly for the individual batting championship. Their husky delegate, Ernie Lombardi, is right up there with the defending titleholder, Pete Reiser, swinging hard for the August leadership in the all-important b. a.

It's the hall-mark of the Quinns Stengel upward drive in Hub baseball, this increase in plate-power through the decades of National League annals, the Boston team have made their marks mainly in the skill side of the game, rather than on mere batting power.

If Lombardi wins the 1942 batting crown he'll be the first Brave to make it since Rogers Hornsby's 1937 led all the rest in 1928. The Raj was the only Brave to lead the league since the historic 438 season of Hugh Duffy, namely 1894.

If Lombardi wins it '42 it's nothing new to him, personally. He was champion in 1938, his great year when the Cincinnati Reds in which he was voted the league's Most Valuable Player.

Lombardi this year is already ahead of his 1938 record in one department. As MVP he was batting champion, hit 19 homers, drove in 95 runs, but pilfered nary a base. This year he's already one up on himself as of 1938, in the stolen-base column.

Kerr Will Defend Skeet Shoot Title In Syracuse Match

California Ace Starts on New Championship Drive Wednesday; Perdue Also Set

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP)—Lt. A. H. Kerr of Beverly Hills, Calif., put in some practice shooting today preparing to defend his sub-championship in the national skeet championships here tomorrow.

Lieut. Kerr, who won the championship with a 99x100 score at the national meet in Indianapolis last year, will shoot with a team of navy marksmen.

Bill Perdue of Mobile, Ala., also was scheduled to get in some practice rounds for defense of the small game championships here tomorrow. Another early arrival was Grant Ilesing, Chicago sharpshooter, who won the professional sub-gauge title at Indianapolis.

Among those here for the women's events are Mrs. M. L. Smythe of Aurora, O., who will make another try for the women's sub-small gauge crown, and Diana Bolling of Greenwich, Conn., who won the title in the small bore competition last year. Mrs. Smythe and Miss Bolling also were contestants in the 1940 national meet here.

Both women are expected to find keen competition in Mr. Potter Palmer, Chicago socialite, who won the recent Lordship women's championship. She has won every major contest in which she has competed, compiling an average of 97 per cent on her registered targets.

The navy has entered two teams in the meet, one headed by Lieut. Comm. F. H. Kelley, assistant director of gunnery training in the navy's Bureau of Aeronautics in Washington, and the other by Chief Specialist C. R. Winterrowd, trapezoidal instructor at the navy pier in Chicago.

Zale Will Fight Georgie Abrams In Benefit Bout

10-Round Non-Title Match Scheduled for Chicago on September 14

Chicago, Aug. 4 (AP)—Middleweight Champion Tony Zale and his No. 1 challenger, Georgie Abrams, will bring Chicago its fifth major war benefit sports performance the week of September 14.

Signing of the two fighters, both new specialists in the navy, for a 10-round non-title bout, out-of-doors, was announced yesterday by Promoter Mike Jacobs of New York, who has a contract to stage benefit shows for the U.S.O.

Also on the U.S.O. card will be Ray (Sugar) Robinson, called the uncrowned king of the welterweights. Neither Robinson's foe nor the date has been named.

At the Central Recreation Alleys last night in the regular weekly program of bowling matches in the Canine League, Bill Evans, anchor for the Bull Dogs, blasted out the highest triple of the night with his 549. Evans posted scores of 194, 184 and 171.

Evans' high triple paced the Bull Dogs to two victories over the Scotties. Evelyn Jones was second high for the winners with 488. Rita Markle sparked the losers with 519, her high game going for 204. Clarabell Gile had scores of 143, 166 and 145 for a 454 series.

Frick Suggests Twilight Games Start Earlier

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—Ford Frick, president of the National League, today suggested that twilight games start earlier to avoid such occurrence as last night when the Brooklyn-New York game at the Polo Grounds was called in the last half of the ninth with the training Giants in the midst of a rally.

"There is nothing the league can do about it since it approved twilight games as the answer to the banning of night games in the cities affected by the dim-out regulations," said Frick. "But at this time of the year the games should be started earlier even though the teams had two hours and 25 minutes to complete last night's game. If they can't do it in that time they don't deserve to finish a game."

Cheese Factories Quit Or Change Production

Chicago, Aug. 4 (AP)—A total of 131 cheese factories throughout the nation have either shut their plants or changed to the production of butter and dried milk within the past two months, a Department of Agriculture statement disclosed today.

The abandonment of cheese, which was the bonanza product of the dairy industry at the start of this year, reflects lowered prices, a glutted market and smaller government purchases, trade sources said.

In Wisconsin 52 plants closed. Illinois is second with 22, Minnesota third with 16 and Iowa fourth with 14.

Onion Growers In Orange Expect Normal Harvest

Rains and Blight Do Less Damage Than Farmers Anticipate in Area Around Florida

Goshen—The harvest of thousands of bags of Orange county onions was under way today. Black dirt farmers of Florida, Pine Island and other centers of the onion-producing region worked through the week-end to rush the harvest of a crop which it was believed would be a normal one this year despite persistent rains and blight.

Friday a day-long rain had soaked the thousands of acres of onion fields. An Saturday, aided by a drying breeze and a warm sun, the fields were workable and hundreds of men and women swarmed over the black soil pulling the first onions and leaving them in long rows on the ground to dry. The TH THT were placed in crates, stacked along the fields, to be trucked to storage houses where they will be screened and bagged for market.

A reporter toured the fields during the storm Friday and had seen field upon field glistening with water. A return trip over the same ground on Saturday afternoon disclosed that not only had the water receded and the fields become workable, but many of the rectangular plots which had on Friday been seas of drooping onion tops, by Saturday had become barren strips of soil bereft of the onions which appeared in crates, some stacked, some scattered about—but each indicative of the speed with which the dawn-to-dusk workers were stripping the fields before more rain could cause damage.

Talks with these men and women who barely paused to answer questions, indicated that some fields were providing a good yield, others only a fair one. Some said they knew of others whose crop would not be so good this year because of the blight. Unseasonal rains and the muggy weather which followed had stunted the onions. Apparently those to suffer most this year would be the farmers whose lands are easily flooded and where drainage facilities are overtaxed.

Far worse than the dry season of last year or the wet season of this, is the dreaded blight that attacks the growing onion and stunts its growth so that in many cases the yield of an acre of meadowland is cut as much as fifty percent. Farmers say that there is as yet no known way to fight the blight.

In the meantime, farmers appeared to be more worried about help in harvesting the crop than they were about the yield. Workers are badly needed since many of the harvesters who worked other years have not been available this year and many of the large families have contributed heavily to the armed services of the nation.

Some hope was foreseen in the opening this morning of an employment office at Florida where local labor might apply. The U. S. Employment Service, of which Justice Garrison of Middletown is in charge, will maintain the office in the Gurda law offices, and local chairmen of the Division of Civilian Mobilization in twenty communities have been urged to enlist labor to assist in the onion fields.

A group of boys arrived from New York yesterday to apply for jobs in the onion fields. All were under military age.

Edison Scores Point

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 4 (AP)—Governor Charles Edison scored a point in his intra-Democratic party feud with Jersey City's Mayor Frank Hague when Justice Joseph L. Bodine of the New Jersey Supreme Court ordered the Hudson County Tax Board previously ousted by Edison to turn over its office and records to a board of the Governor's choosing. Justice Bodine said the writ of mandamus settled no question of title to office, as "a contest as to who holds a public office is determinable only in a quo warranto proceedings." County police in the domain ruled by Hague as Democratic leader had barred the five Edison-appointed tax board members from entry into the quarters occupied by the old board.

Girl performers in the circus joined toiling men in beating down the flames and doing what they could to quench the animals.

Mead Makes Plea For War Unity at Democrats' Dinner

Senator James M. Mead, Democratic candidate for governor of New York, attended the meeting and dinner given at the Governor Clinton Hotel Monday evening for members of the Ulster County Democratic Committee. His talk was directed along a plea for unity in war effort. In his talk he supported the policies of the New Deal and said the United States was now the arsenal and granary of the United Nations.

Senator Mead was greeted by Mayor William F. Edelmuth and Joseph H. Forman, Ulster County Democratic chairman, who presided at the meeting.

Following Senator Mead's talk Mr. Forman presented the Democratic candidates who will be voted for at the fall election. Those who were present were Jacob J. Schneider for state senator; Joseph E. Vosdick, for member of assembly; Francis Martocci for district attorney and Herbert L. George for county clerk.

Orange County Fair Opens August 17

The managements of the Orange County Fair and the Middletown Chamber of Commerce have issued an invitation jointly to former residents of Orange county to come back for Old Timers' Day at the Fair on Friday, August 21 and join the old time residents in competition for War Savings Stamps offered as prizes in a list of contests prepared by Alexander MacCready, secretary of the Middletown Chamber and Old Timers' host for the day.

Old Timers' Day, inaugurated two years ago, has become one of the main events of the 102-year-old exposition at Middletown, which this year has been announced as a Horse and Buggy Fair. The exposition will open August 17 and continue each day and night through Saturday of that week.

Gandhi Says Indians Would Deal With Japs

London, Aug. 4 (AP)—The British government for India, releasing the text of Mohandas K. Gandhi's draft of the resolution calling for a civil disobedience campaign for Indian freedom, declared today that "if India were freed her first step would be to negotiate with Japan." Reuters reported from New Delhi.

The draft resolution already has been rejected by the working committee of the all-India congress party after vigorous opposition from Pandit Jawahara Nehru, a more moderate leader, and has been replaced by a more moderate version now up for party consideration.

It was the second major disaster to befall the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey circus in the past few years. Last season many of the show's elephants were poisoned.

Fortunately, the fire was confined principally to the menagerie. The famed big top itself escaped.

The circus opened here yesterday for a four-day stand.
